

AT&T: Keep Operator Services Jobs In Harvey, Illinois

AT&T, the largest U.S. telecom company, has always been a leader. It should also be a leader in our nation's economic recovery.

Plenty of companies are in trouble these days, but AT&T isn't one of them.

AT&T's 2008 profit was $12.9 billion. CEO Randall Stephenson is paid $45,000 a day. He and other top executives enjoy lavish perks, like personal use of AT&T's 15 corporate jets.

Despite AT&T's financial health, corporate executives are pushing for cuts in quality jobs and health care benefits for employees and retirees.

Harvey Deserves Better

Cutting jobs and benefits isn't the way out of this recession. There is nothing our economy needs more than good jobs.

If AT&T operator services jobs in Harvey are cut or moved overseas, it's not just AT&T workers and their families who will suffer. It would be a blow to our entire community.

Healthy companies like AT&T can help lead Harvey, Illinois and the country to better times by maintaining good jobs in our communities and bringing work back from overseas.
