ALERT

Communications Workers of America

You've seen what's happening in Wisconsin.

The state's Republican governor -- backed by Big Business and conservatives in the legislature -- is leading a full-fledged assault on collective bargaining rights for public employees.

They're making a big mistake. They've picked a fight with more than just Wisconsin's public workers. They've picked a fight with all of us -- and it's a fight we're going to win.

Tomorrow, CWA members from coast to coast will wear red in support of our brothers and sisters who are fighting for their collective bargaining rights and in solidarity with thousands of CWA members who will be rallying in Trenton, NJ at noon. Join us by wearing red -- and make your support even stronger by sending us a photo of you, your friends and coworkers wearing red too. We'll display your photos for the entire nation to see just how united we are.

Send us your photo here: <http://www.cwa-union.org/pages/wearred>

You can also show your solidarity online by changing your profile picture on Facebook, Twitter, and other social networks to show our CWA Activist icon. Click here for instructions.

This fight isn't just happening in Wisconsin -- it's happening everywhere. From New Jersey to Ohio to Oklahoma, workers' rights are under assault by lawmakers who put the interests of billionaires ahead of working families.

Just last night, CWA held a briefing call with union leadership and thousands of activists from all over the country. We heard reports from local leaders about efforts to strip workers of their rights to collectively bargain -- and we continued planning our powerful response.

You can listen to audio from last night's call, and tell us what you'd like to hear during next week's call, by clicking here: http://www.cwa-union.org/pages/cwa_activist_call_feedback

Workers' rights have been under assault for decades, and right now we have a chance to show, once and for all, that we won't sit back while our rights are eroded and our livelihoods are put at risk. Join the fight by wearing red tomorrow, and stand in solidarity with our brothers and sisters throughout the United States.
